HINTON H. PRUETT FOR CO. SUPERINTENDENT

Hinton H. Pruett, widely known educator, and Superintendent of the Milano public schools, is a candidate for County Superintendent of schools for Milam County.

Mr. Pruett in making his announcement for the nomination in the primary election on Saturday, July 22, issued the following statement to the people on the county: TO THE VOTERS OF MILAM COUNTY:

In announcing my candidacy for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, I am not unmindful of the importance of the office I seek. I was born in Milam County within 6 miles of where I now teach. I had to work my way through school, both high school and college. I hold a Bachelors Degree from Teachers College, San Marcos, Texas, and a Master of Arts Degree from the University of Missouri. These were both earned while teaching school for less than $100 per month.

I am now and have been for the past eight years Superintendent of the Milano Independent School District. Ever since I was a boy growing up in Milam County I have had a burning desire to some day be County Superintendent of my native county. This desire was due, I think, to the fact that the County Superintendent's office offered a wide field of service and an opportunity to serve every boy and girl in the county.

In 1940 I made the race for the office. In a field of 5 candidates, I (turn to page ten)

The label of "boardinghouse dish" has been tagged to Trifle too long. When correctly made, it's a fit dessert for the most epicurean company into a shallow serving dish pour 1/2 cup sherry. Then put into dish 1 single layer sponge cake (two or three days old) cut into fairly thin slices, spread with currant jelly, raspberry or strawberry jam. While cake soaks up the wine make a boiled custard: Scald 3 cups milk in top of double boiler. Beat 3 eggs with 1/4 cup sugar and 1/2 tsp. salt. Pour the hot milk over this stirring constantly. Put back into top of double boiler, cook over medium flame. Stir continuously until just barely thick. Remove and stir in 1/4 tsp. vanilla. Let cool with cover on, then pour over cake in wine. Chill well. Decorate with dots of jelly or jam and whipped cream if you wish. 4 generous servings.

Several families in multiple buildings can share an average size gas incinerator because it burns up three bushels of garbage per hour. Operating cost is low.

Simple cheese sauce: Heat 1 cup evaporated milk over hot water, pour into 1/4 lb. grated Cheddar cheese. Stir gently until smooth.

Mushrooms shrivel up and toughen unless they are cooked quickly over a low flame.

A once-a-year check by an expert service man will keep the flues of your gas space heater clean and unblocked.

in Electric COOKING

What a difference an electric range makes! Less work... more leisure time... new cooking pleasure... tasty cookbook results every time!

Cooking electrically is faster, easier! A flip of the switch and high-speed cooking units are instantly ready for use. Accurate temperature controls maintain uniform heat, so there's less watching and waiting, less guesswork.

It's cleaner, because there's no smoke to blacken pots and pans... no soot to settle on curtains, walls and cabinets.

It's cooler, because your electric range is fully insulated. Cooking heat goes directly into the vessel, not up or around the sides.

And economical! Your electric range actually saves you money, for there's less food shrinkage. Dependable electricity costs only one cent per person per average meal. You bet there's a difference in electric cooking. It's the new, truly modern method of cooking today!

NATIONAL HD CLUB WEEK OBSERVED WITH BANQUET

In observance of National Home Demonstration Club on Wednesday evening, May 3, Milam County Club women gave a banquet for the Commissioner's Court and presented a program in appreciation of the late Mrs. Edna W. Triggs, who organized club work in this county during the years from 1912 to 1915. Club work for girls and women that eventually became 4-H and Home Demonstration work.

The banquet was held in the dining-room of the Milam Coffee Shop in Cameron. Seventy-eight people were present for the occasion. In addition to the Commissioner's Court there were several other guests of distinction. Most notable among these was Mrs. Eloise T. Johnson, Family Life and Education Specialist of the Extension Service at A&M College, who is the daughter of Mrs. Edna W. Triggs, around whose work the program was planned.

Also among the guests were Miss Margaret Bracher, District Home Demonstration Agent, and Mrs. Bertie Alford, the recently-employed County Home Demonstration Agent. Among those who seemed to enjoy the occasion most, was George Banzaff, County Agricultural Agent, Emeritus, who was associated with Mrs. Triggs in those early days of Agricultural Demonstration work. J. D. Moore, the County Agricultural Agent, and Mrs. Moore were also present. The remainder of those in attendance were Home Demonstration Club women and their husbands.

Mrs. John McLerran, Mrs. M. A. Hearne, and Mrs. V. L. Angell acted as hostesses and greeted the guests at the door, presenting each lady with a lovely corsage of sweet-peas and each gentleman with corn-flowers for his lapel. These corsages were contributed by Mrs. H. N. Tate of Cameron.

The program began with a gracious welcome by the Chairman of the County Home Demonstration Council, Mrs. Bernice Charles. Then Mrs. Hugh Wimberley introduced the guests of honor and let all the others to introduce themselves. While the dinner was being served, a quartette from the Forrest Grove Club sang.

After dinner, Mrs. C. G. Muston introduced the theme of the program by telling a brief story of the origin of Home Demonstration work in this county. Prior to 1912, Mrs. Edna W. Triggs, who kept her farm home and taught the Liberty School, found the time to organize Tomato Clubs. These Clubs were organized to promote successful work among rural girls who were interested in growing tomatoes and in canning. A little later Women's Clubs were organized to learn better methods of canning. Through able efforts of Mrs. Triggs, these Clubs eventually became 4-H Clubs for Girls and Home Demonstration Clubs for women. Mrs. Triggs and the few others over the State who were instrumental in beginning this work were first called "Collaborators," then "Demonstrators," and finally, "County Home Demonstration Agents". Mrs. Triggs left Milam County in 1915 to continue her work on a full-time basis in Denton County, and she was associated with the Extension Service until 1940.

A representative from each club in the county then gave a brief history of her club. From these stories it was learned that the Jones Prairie Club is the oldest Club still functioning and that it was organized during the time Mrs. Triggs was working in this County. The Walker's Creek Club is the newest, having been organized less than a year. There are now eleven clubs.

After these stories Mrs. C. G. Muston directed a candle-lighting ceremony. Mrs. Johnson was introduced for the first time as the daughter of Mrs. Edna W. Triggs. Then as a symbol of "the light that her mother shed upon a path toward a better way of life for rural people," Mrs. Johnson was asked to light a candle. As a further symbol of the way the benefits of Home Demonstration work are passed from person-to-person, Mrs. Johnson passed the lighted candles down the line until everyone held a candle, symbolic of the fact that all contribute to Home Demonstration work and all enjoy its benefits. Then everyone stood with bowed head, in "a moment of silent thanksgiving" for Edna W. Triggs who saw a better way of life for farm people.

Then came a series of spontaneous speeches, one of appreciation from Mrs. Johnson, one of congratulation from Miss Bracher, one of reminiscence from Mr. Banzaff. Several other contributed memories of Mrs. Triggs, and some testified that they had been members of a "Tomato Club". Piano selections by Margaret Angell contributed greatly to the atmosphere of the occasion.

The group reluctantly departed after singing, "Sing Your Way Home" led by Mrs. Robert Glenn.

The menu included spiced ham, green beans, potato salad, pickled peaches, iced tea, and ice cream. The tables were decorated with Magnolia leaves, white candles and vari-colored napkins.

Gomez driving a 1941 Ford Sedan started around the double curve driving at a high speed and upon applying his brakes the automobile turned over.

Milano Man Makes Progress In Veteran's Agriculture Class

Thelston Morgan is a member of the Milano Veteran's Agriculture Class. He enrolled in the class June 1, 1947 and will have completed the three year course this June. He hopes to enroll in a fourth year class and continue to study the approved practices and problems of agriculture, which have been applied to his farming operations. When Thelston enrolled in the Milano class, he had bought a 164 acre tract of land and was buying another tract of 150 acres. He has finished payment on the latter tract and is now buying another 60 acre tract of land. Next year he hopes to build a new home.

Thelston usually has 10 to 20 acres in truck crops each year, which includes tomatoes, watermelons and cantaloupes. These truck crops have been the backbone of the economy of the Sandy Land Section of Milam County for several years but are becoming less profitable each year due to a combination of unfavorable weather and uncertain market conditions. He is still growing truck crops, but is beginning to lean a little more heavily on his livestock program, which also includes pasture improvement and home grown feed.

The practice in raising livestock in the Southeast part of Milam County has been to just run them on the open range. The hogs got their water from the creek, and if the farmers were lucky enough to get a good acorn crop, they made some money. That kind of business is getting to be a little slow and besides the open range is not what it used to be.

Thelston figured that he would have to raise green pasture and grain right on the sandy land, if he expected to stay in the hog business. Thelston has a fairly good grade of white faced cows and a registered Hereford Bull. He has had this bull about 2 years and believes the bull has been worth the original investment several times with the good calf crops produced.

Thelston has an agreement and plan for pastures worked out with the Taylor Soil Conservation District. He is taking advantage of the assistance offered by the Milam County Agricultural Conservation Association. This assistance consists of seeding, liming, fertilizing, terracing and farm food construction. He has found that about the most difficult problem is increasing and maintaining the fertility of the soil. He has found that before he can expect the land to produce good yields, something has to be put back into the soil.

Thelston usually tries to top out from 150 to 250 hogs per year. To do this, he has to see that his hogs have all of a good balanced feed, that they will consume, before them at all times. This is accomplished by using self feeders. A hog also needs all of the good clean water that it will drink and it must be free from insects and diseases. All his hogs are vaccinated to prevent cholera and sprayed with BHC to control lice and mange.

Thelston has found many uses for rural electrification which has been in service on his farm for a little more than a year. An electric water pump is a nice investment.

Thelston has found that he hasn't learned everything about farming during his three year course at Milano. He has learned that farming is an occupation where a man will always learn a better and more efficient way to produce crops and livestock for the nation's food supply. His eyes have been opened to all the possibilities for improvement and efficiency that are open in the field of agriculture.

Prison Budget Is $5,444,256

The Texas Prison Board has approved a $5,444,256 1951-1952 budget for submission to the State Legislature in January.

This is an increase of $468,000 over the current budget and all of the hike is earmarked for salary increases and new personnel.

Board Chairman W. C. Windsor of Tyler said Tuesday salary increases for guards and picket men will be worked out on a sliding scale. The proposed increases would range up to $50 a month.

Guards now are paid a flat $1,800 per year. Picket men receive from $135 to $150 a month. Under the proposed budget, guards would start at a $1,800 a year minimum and scale up to a maximum $2,400.

Why just listen to reasons?

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF!

THIS TIME we'd like to tell you about something that you cannot see in this picture—something, in fact, you cannot know about from looking at someone else in a passing Buick—or from viewing a Buick on our showroom floor.

It's the feel you get from a Buick in motion.

You are going to find out that it is something like traveling on your own private, jet-propelled cloud—only firmer.

Maybe you know a stretch of washboard road, where you have to slow down, or bounce and jitter.

Try that in a Buick and see how you keep a level, comfortable boulevard smoothness.

Maybe you're always on edge to dodge dips and chuckholes. Those also lose most of their jolt when you're at the wheel of a Buick—or in the rear seat.

In a few simple words—the ride of any Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—is out of this world.

We could give you a lot of reasons. Soft coil springs on all four wheels, for example—the firm linkage of the torque-tube drive—the distribution of weight—big soft tires on wide rims—the way Buick engines are mounted.

Even Dynaflo Drive*—always silky-smooth and free of geared-drive harshness—plays its part in the marvelous Buick ride.

But why simply listen to reasons? Experience is still the best teacher.

Come see for yourself why the Buick ride is called "matchless"—and how little it costs to replace a jitterbuggy with one of these level-striding honeys.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

ONLY BUICK HAS Dynaflo AND WITH IT GOES:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

First Loan Approved Under REA Telephone Program For Texas

WASHINGTON, May 8—The Rural Electrification Administration gave a green light Monday for the new government-aid rural telephone program in Texas.

Members of Congress from that state who helped push through the REA telephone bill, including the measure's author, Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, went to the Agriculture Department to witness the signing of the first loan contract for Texas.

Applicant for a 35-year loan was the Navasota Telephone Company of Navasota. The money, repayable at 1 per cent interest, is to be used to expand the private concern's system in three Central Texas counties—Washington, Grimes and Brazos.

Deputy REA Administrator George

Haggard, a leader in Texas REA activities before coming to Washington, was picked to sign the loan contract in the absence of REA Administrator Claude Wickard.

Representatives Pickett, Teague and Thornberry, whose congressional districts are served by the Navasota company, and Senators Connally and Lyndon B. Johnson, all Texas Democrats, were invited to witness the signing of the loan.

Business Women Held Interesting Meeting

Business and Professional Womens Club met in the club rooms at 7:30 Tuesday night, May 2, 1950 with 22 members and guests present.

The B & P W Club was the host for the community clinic night set aside for the ladies of the community and much interest and enthusiasm was shown during that period of the meeting when each lady present was asked to give suggestions and express her view point about some projects that should be undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce in their program of work for the year.

One of the many suggestions made during the evening was that a lounge and meeting place should be established in Cameron for the Farmers of our community and a market for farm products. It was pointed out that a hostess should be designated for Cameron to welcome all newcomers into the city and set up a system, such as other cities have, of merchants offering gift certificates for merchandise in their stores to newcomers. All enthusiastically approved the suggestion that a kindergarten should be established for the small children of the community. These and many other fine suggestions were made for the betterment of our city.

Those members of the Chamber of Commerce present to conduct the clinic were Bill McIntosh, President of the Chamber of Commerce, Charles Berry, Manager of the Community Development Department of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce and L. Smith, Manager of our local Chamber of Commerce.

Doughnuts and coffee were served in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reichert of Valley Mills were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rosenberg.

Man Shoots Four
Over Delinquent Tax

GOLDTHWAITE, Texas, May 4—A concrete worker enraged over a $12.70 delinquent tax notice yelled out his grievances on a downtown Goldthwaite street Wednesday and wounded four persons with two shotgun blasts.

The man stood at the entrance of a hardware-implement store for thirty to forty-five minutes.

During most of that time he kept his double-barreled shotgun leveled at Claud C. Collier, president of the Gatesville School Board, and president of the Fairman Company, owners of the hardware store. Collier was not hit.

Deputy Sheriff Clyde Cockrum finally felled the man with a shot in the forearm. The shot also wounded him in the stomach. Cockrum said the man was Tommy Fuller, 45, a concrete worker who lives three miles from Goldthwaite.

Fuller kept yelling that he was going to be evicted from his premises because of the tax delinquency. "You better get away," he yelled at approximately 700 persons who gathered on the sidewalks on the north side of the courthouse square in Goldthwaite, the county seat of Mills County in West Central Texas.

In a joking manner, Luther Booker, 65, a house painter, shouted from across the street—"Aw, put that gun down and get some rocks."

Fuller turned toward the man and shot at him, hitting him in the shoulder and on one side with pellets.

The Rev. Ed C. Lovelace, pastor of the Goldthwaite Methodist Church, was hit by a pellet.

Then Fuller turned toward the hardware store and shot across the showroom, hitting Robert Cockrum, 55, a farmer and uncle of the deputy sheriff, in the groin. Two pellets from the shot hit E. T. Fairman, about 60, of the Fairman Company, and president of the Trent State Bank of Goldthwaite.

Fuller, Cockrum and Booker were given emergency treatment here and then taken to a Brownwood hospital.

Fairman had stood within six feet of Fuller for thirty minutes pleading with him to put the shotgun down.

Then the deputy sheriff, who had been summoned, took one straight shot across the store room, hitting Fuller in the forearm. Fuller dropped his shotgun and then was taken into custody.

Fuller remained in custody Wednesday night. Sheriff Wylie L. Mahan was out of town Wednesday. No charges are expected to be filed until Thursday.

Water Projects
Get Final Okeh

WASHINGTON, May 4—Congress completed its action on a bill authorizing water projects which would cost an estimated $1,730,000,000.

Final action was in the Senate. It accepted by a 44 to 24 rollcall vote a compromise version of the big bill.

The measure, authorizing $1,730,251,825 of expenditures in virtually every State, breezed through the House yesterday on a roll call vote of 210 to 137 after less than an hour of debate.

The bill authorizes these types of projects: Rivers and harbors; it provides no money for them. That must come in separate legislation.

The bill includes 14 Texas projects, largest of which is the Galveston seawall.

The Texas projects include:

Rivers and Harbors: Sabine-Neches Waterway, vicinity of Port Arthur Bridge, $609,270; Galveston Harbor and Channel, seawall, $5,550,000; Gulf Intracoastal Waterway in South Galveston Bay, $300,000; Chocolate and Bastrop Bayous, change in plans, no cost; Freeport Harbor, $356,000; Little Bay, $29,800; Brazos Island Harbor, $3,050,000; and Trinity River at Dallas and Fort Worth, $3,410,000.

Flood Control Surveys: Streams flowing through Austin-Washington, Bastrop-Fayette, Calhoun-Victoria, Middle Guadalupe Basin, Navasota and Copano Bay Soil Conservation Districts in Texas, and Lower Rio Grande Valley including streams in Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron and Wallacy Counties.

Mud Lake Gets "Cleared Up"

County officers got a notice from the government not long ago, asking them to change the name of Mud Lake. Seems it's a pond, not a lake, by government standards.

Because it lies entirely inside our town limits, we asked to do the name-changing ourselves. Figured we'd think up a brand-new name. Mud Lake's really not very muddy—sort of pretty, in fact.

County people said go ahead, so we held a Town Meeting. Everyone suggested something. Windy Taylor thought "Taylor Pond" would be nice, because his place borders it—for about 30 feet! But we finally decided to call it "Turtle Pond" in honor of the real owners.

From where I sit, naming that pond wasn't the most important thing in the world—but the way we did it was. Everyone offered his opinion and then the majority vote decided it. That's the way it should be—whether it concerns naming a pond, or having the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer or ale—if and when we choose.

4,670 X-Ray Pictures Made In TB Survey In Milam County

A total of 4,670 X-Ray pictures were made in the tuberculosis survey made in Milam county in March, the Milam County Health Unit reported this week.

Of that number, 141 were suspicious while .03 per cent were listed as moderately advanced and far advanced.

A similar survey was made in November of 1948 in Milam county when 3,166 pictures were taken, with 58 listed as suspicious and .018 percent moderately advanced and far advanced.

The survey was sponsored by the Health Unit along with the Milam County Medical Society and the State Department of Health. Chas. M. Hicks was county chairman, while C. M. Selman served as chairman for Rockdale, Roy C. A. Butler at Thorndale, and L. G. Smith at Cameron. Officials expressed thanks to newspapers and picture shows of the county for their co-operation, also to clubs and individuals who participated and contributed to the success of the survey.

ran third, being forced out of the run-off by a few votes. As many of you will remember, Mrs. Guy T. Newton was elected that year but resigned shortly after being elected. Our present superintendent, Mr. Charles M. Hicks, and myself were applicants for the position vacated by Mrs. Newton. The county commissioners were to make an appointment to fill the office. The Commissioners Court became deadlocked over the appointment as Mr. Hicks had two votes and I had two. The deciding vote was cast by the county judge, and I lost by one vote.

The present county superintendent has held the office without an opponent since his appointment. I have refrained from offering as a candidate, feeling that an office holder is entitled to a reasonable term of years in office. I feel now that due to these circumstances and the very narrow margins by which I have been denied the office that I am not being unfair in asking the people of my native county to elect me county superintendent.

I have served the people of my county to the best of my ability in every opportunity that presented itself. If elected your county superintendent, I pledge you my very best efforts to make you the best county superintendent it is possible for me to make. It is my desire to bring Milam County a type of educational leadership suitable for all schools.

My school is still in session and it will be impossible for me to start an active campaign until my school is out. After the close of school it is my intention to see as many of you as possible and ask for your vote in person. If by some circumstance I do not get to see you, this is a personal appeal for you to give me the one vote I lacked of being superintendent one time before.

Middleground, Goes To Preakness Track For Race Saturday

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8—Middleground, the King Ranch's great racer that won the Kentucky Derby Saturday, moves to Baltimore this week to try to add the Preakness to his laurels. The race will be run May 20.

The Texas horse is among at least seven Derby horses that will go after the second gem on American racing's triple crown. The others are Hill Prince, second in the Derby; Mr. Trouble, third, and the also-rans, Sunglow, Oil Capitol, Hawley and Your Host.

Despite the close three-horse finish in the Derby, a lot of Middleground's followers argue the other horses are wasting their time challenging him in the Preakness. They point up that the King Ranch campaigner emphasized his superiority by winning from the worst post position. He broke from the extreme outside and thus had farther to run than the rest of the field.

Neutral opinion-holders rate Middleground, Hill Prince and Mr. Trouble as potentially great and think they will be beating each other all year in stakes for 3-year-olds.

Mrs. Roy Vaughan is spending this week with her husband, Lt. Vaughan at Fort Bliss, El Paso.

"Campus of Champions"

Versatile Oklahoma A. & M. College students from all corners of the world come to study a variety of career subjects. The sprawling Sooner State center of knowledge is known far and wide as the school with the "campus of champions." (Story Page Two.)

Oklahoma A.&M. College Famous 'Campus of Champions' As School Goes Into 59th Year of Expansion And Building

By RICHARD M. CALDWELL

Quality, low cost and practical education has been the aim of the Oklahoma A&M College at Stillwater since its establishment by an act of the first Territorial Legislature in 1890.

In its fifty-ninth year, the college embraces four fields of service. These are: teaching directed toward technological and vocational education; public and extension services and research.

A&M has earned a reputation as "A Campus of Champions and Opportunities," through its top-ranking students in national competitions, especially in the Division of Agriculture. These have excelled in livestock, horticulture, grain research and agronomy.

Through its School of Engineering, A&M has become worldwide renowned as the scene on which the parking meter was researched. Its current work on the cyclone detecting device is equally spectacular. The college is equally ambitious in analyzing and perfecting its student body in its progressive divisions of Arts and Sciences, Education Oklahoma Institute of Technology (engineering), Home Economics, Veterinary Medicine and the graduate school.

Accent at A&M is on research and laboratory facilities as well as classroom direction. It is presently emphasizing quality student development in some 75 departments of its eight major training provinces. Botanists, plant pathologists, music, drama, speech, psychology, chemistry, business administration, geology, journalism and intensive business leaders, among others at college are not only developing master classes but meeting the highest professional educational standards.

Campus Is Famous

The 250-acre handsomely landscaped campus, of small lakes, Williamsburg architecture, laboratories, classroom buildings, residence halls and other fine structures, has come to be one noted for hospitality, student democracy and scholarship.

With some 50 major structures on the campus, the A&M College valuation exceeds $40,000,000 at the present against a similar valuation of $4,000,000 in 1933, including equipment, buildings, non-structural improvements and land. The college has title to or long lease on approximately 40,000 acres of land. Fifteen A&M Agricultural Experiment stations, either directly college or correlated with federal agencies conduct directly applicable and scientific public service research.

The college has a broad out-of-state student enrollment, with some 100 internationals registered here from 30 nations. Current registration at A&M exceeds 12,000. It is estimated that 100,000 students have received degrees from the college. Over 12,500 GI's have availed themselves of the veteran education program to date and the college wartime facilities served over 40,000.

Out-of-state tuition operates on a reciprocal agreement with states mutually agreeing to drop this fee. Admittance from high school is on credit hours and diploma, not on rigid subject content.

The Research Foundation created in 1941, opened broadest avenues for scientific investigation at the college along with several other already existing ones serving practically every province of education in the college.

The year 1944 saw the creation of Oklahoma's Flying Farmers on the A&M campus, an organization that has progressed to national status and of international influence.

In 1945 the college set up this state's first major branch college at Okmulgee, serving both college and sub-college level students. As a trade school and training center for handicapped men and women, it has become regionally renowned. The transfer of some 5,000 acres at Surveying or practicing fire drills . . . it doesn't matter. You'll find every kind of worthwhile training at Oklahoma's famous A. & M. College.

Oklahoma's War Camp Gruber to the college recently broadened the scope of agricultural educational services through joint projection of experimental and extension divisions.

Largest Project

The GI housing project at A&M at the close of the war was reputedly the largest and among the very first completed and studied as a pattern for college campuses throughout America.

In 1947, when the nucleus material of the famous Klockner-Humbolt-Deutz diesel laboratory came to A&M, over 214 other major bidders, it focused attention of power propulsion sciences to Oklahoma. Set up as the Oklahoma Power and Propulsion Laboratory, it is serving industry on a state, national and governmental scale, correlating the skills of engineering, chemical and other scientists on the campus in major projects.

On the heels of these came the announcement of the renaming of the Engineering School, founded in 1911, to the Oklahoma Institute of Technology, an act broadening all fields of engineering sciences. This was followed by the establishment of the School of Veterinary Medicine, as a southern regional center,

A&M's eighth major province of training; by the expansion of aeronautical studies and the Institute of Veterinary Research, whose field laboratory in this state is reputedly the nation's foremost in Anaplasmosis research and control studies of livestock diseases.

A&M has developed a highly-rated School of Architecture; one of the nation's few professional schools for men in Hotel and Restaurant Management; achieved the first major Land-Grant College accreditation for its field of Technical Training; perfected a unique Fire Training school, dubbed the "West Point of Fire Service" by the National Fire Protectors' Association; pushed soil conservation, sorghum, grain and agricultural chemistry, wheat and livestock feed research, animal breeding and soil sciences to top-rank ratings. Noted for its chemical, electrical, industrial engineers, mathematicians, commerce and education division specialists . . . the growth of the college has moved on a master plan, expanding its cultural and varied training fields.

The post-war forties have seen a continuation of the 25-year building program inaugurated by College President Dr. Henry G. Bennett in the late twenties.

Nine Buildings

The present $15,000,000 building march of progress at A&M embraces nine major structures. These are a spectacular stadium and added facilities for a sports and athletic program that consistently ties in with regional tops; a $4,500,000 Student Union; Home Economics and Vet Medicine centers; a men's dormitory for 1,100 residents and said to be the nation's largest residence hall under one roof; water and power plant, serving as a gateway for city water supply, a woman's residence hall and a modern dairy palace. A new library is on the immediate building agenda.

At the half-turn of the century, A&M looks back on one decade after another of advancement. Its graduates and former students are holding responsible posts throughout the world. To its campus come thousands of Oklahoma youth, club, church, educational and scientific groups throughout every year. Its short courses, its extension services have extended campus facilities until its boundaries are state and regionally wide.

The institution's dynamic president, Dr. Henry G. Bennett, in his twenty-second year of service, is America's senior Land-Grant College president in years of unbroken service at a single institution. For over 42 years an educational influence in Oklahoma, and the Southwest, he has served the government and U. S. Army on missions to Canada and Europe in the role of food and agricultural rehabilitation expert.

"Students at A&M are continuously making and sustaining the candid values of education they are applying in the practical tests of life," he said recently.

One result of the present investigation of atomic secrecy likely will be an increase in personnel for the Bureau of Investigation. J. Edgar Hoover, the G-Men's chief, has told the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee that he needs at least 300 more men. It has been ascertained that there are 540,000 Communists and fellow-travelers in the U. S. A tenth of them, Hoover says, are dues-paying members of the Red party.

Smiles Come Back

I had a smile—
I gave my smile away;
The milkman and the postman
Enjoyed it every day.
I took it to the shop,
I had it on the street,
I gave it without thinking
To all I chanced to meet.
I gave my smile away;
As thoughtless as could be,
And every time I gave it,
My smile came back to me.
—Julius Henry Cohen.

Terse and Verse

If a trouble comes your way,
Don't ask a friend to share it;
Leave it for a brighter day,
And you — just grin and bear it.

If a joy comes into view,
Go more'n half way to greet it;
Just feel sure it is for you—
And that's the way to meet it.

4-H Club Champ Always Wins Out

Perhaps it wasn't too much of a surprise to Texas 4-H'ers when Howard Altenhof, 20, won second place in the National 4-H Achievement Contest at the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. After all, Howard long has been a recognized leader in Guadalupe, his home county, and the entire State of Texas. When one has a record of outstanding accomplishments such as Howard's, you expect great things for and from him.

In addition to his trip to Chicago, he received a $150 college scholarship, both of which were provided by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago.

Howard has completed his eleventh year of 4-H Club work, and actually has sold more than 100,000 pounds of beef and 158,000 pounds of pork, and it all started with one pig. He has produced more than 10,000 bushels of corn, and this has gone to market through his cattle and hogs.

He was National Meat Animal Contest winner in 1947 and represented his fellow Texans at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C., in 1948. He has put his profits back into his ever-expanding program and today he owns, with his father, a farm, all equipment necessary to operate it and plenty of livestock to stock it. All this resulted from his active 4-H work.

It has been said that Howard has accomplished in 4-H work what many an adult farmer fails to do in many years of farm operations, and we're inclined to agree. Howard Altenhof may well be one of Texas' outstanding farmers, because he has achieved what he set out to do—"to make the best-better!"

Army Veteran James Redford of Fort Worth (Tex.), whose career was turned to leather crafts by an injury in World War II. A veteran leather merchant, Dave Tandy, helped encourage the youth toward a profitable hobby that now keeps him busy filling orders from every part of the country.

Fort Worth Firm Assists Veteran In Leather Hobby

Since the end of World War II, craft work of all kinds has become increasingly popular, and thousands of veterans have turned to some sort of handicraft, such as pottery, woodwork, etc., but none have caught on like leather craftsmanship. Besides being the oldest and most beautiful known to mankind, leathercraft is also one of the most interesting and profitable crafts handed down to us through the generations.

The re-habilitated veteran has benefitted more by this art than probably anyone. Leatherwork is most popular because it offers an easy way to adapt the skill of one's hands, and there is no end to the adaptability of leather itself. It is indeed profitable due to the relatively few people per capita now employed in leather industries. And veterans, who upon discharge, found it difficult to hold regular employment due to handicap received during their years in the service, have turned to self-employment in seeking a career in leathercraft. Such is the case of army veteran, James Redford of Fort Worth, Texas.

Returning to his home-town after discharge, he tried several jobs, but lost them because of a severe head injury that subjected him to amnesia and blackouts. Redford had first encountered leather work during a short stay in the William Beaumont General Hospital in 1944. With many unsuccessful attempts behind him in various forms of employment, he appealed to Dave Tandy, general manager of the Hinckley-Tandy Leather Company of Fort Worth, who recommended a local instructor in the art of leathercraft. With the assistance of the Veterans Administration Home Training Program, Redford secured the necessary equipment to pursue his new career at home. In a short time he had mastered the necessary skill for making all types of leather goods and decided to make leather carving his life work.

After a few months of concentrated application and help received from Hinckley-Tandy Leather Company in securing outlets for his finished leather products, his efforts began to pay off in earnest. In one month alone he received $400 worth of orders from wholesalers and finally produced in one month an amazing total of over $1200 worth of belts, billfolds, purses, watch bands etc.

Today Redford keeps himself busy in his home workshop filling the constant flow of orders he receives regularly from outlets in several states. The case of James Redford, rehabilitated veteran, who finally found his niche through leathercraft, is typical of thousands of people who have found leathercraft a profitable hobby or profession. But, leathercraft is so versatile, and flexible in its application and use, the demand never stops, and anyone, even with no experience and a small outlay of investment, can establish themselves in an interesting and lucrative business.

No man is stepped on unless he lies down first.

4-H Clubbers Will Beat Record of '49

Based on the increasing popularity of the National 4-H Poultry Achievement Program, the 4-H'ers should top their last year's record of raising a total of 8,000,000 chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese. Likewise, the enrollment figure is expected to pass the 150,000 mark, reached in 1949.

County extension agents and local 4-H Club leaders work with the youth, instructing them in newest methods and approved practices used in poultry and egg production. Members are encouraged to carry out the six main objectives of the program, which briefly are: Learn the place of poultry in the economy of the farm; acquire skill in poultry raising; assist in production of eggs and fowl to provide adequate supplies for food; appreciate the nutritive value of eggs; learn to grade and market poultry products; study scientific developments and apply the knowledge to home flock production.

The 4-H'ers carefully keep records showing production of birds and eggs and also general achievements in other phases of club work.

Question: Will hens lay well in their second year of production?

Answer: Old hens normally don't lay very well in their second year's production. They usually start to lay late, and then at a low rate. Most good poultry raisers plan to replace the greater part of their flock with pullets each year. Many house pullets only. It is only by housing a pullet flock that winter eggs can be obtained. May hatched chicks will start to lay in October or November, so it is not too late to start chicks for winter laying.

It is a hard lot that pretty women have to face. The average man won't believe they have brains, and the average woman won't believe they have beauty.

It's Fun to Get the Family In For Candy

Almost anyone will enjoy a box of homemade candy or cookies for special occasions. The children enjoy helping make the good things to fill the boxes. If you have no pretty boxes, save any small ones you can find. Let the children decorate them by pasting on the pictures from last year's holiday fancy cards or some paper. Some easy-to-make candy that is good for the children can be made from dried fruits. Dates with the pits taken out may be stuffed with several fillings.

A piece of nut meat, peanut butter mixed with enough orange juice to make a stiff paste, or a quarter of a marshmallow, are easy to do. They may be left plain or rolled in granulated sugar. For a different flavor, add one teaspoon cinnamon to one-quarter cup sugar and mix well.

You probably have your own pet recipe for fudge and panocha. Have you tried using evaporated milk instead of regular milk? You do have to watch the mixture more carefully while cooking to avoid scorching, but the results are smooth.

The Whole Family Goes For Brownies

Nut-brown "brownies" with tall glasses of milk—what a treat for spring!

- 2/3 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or other shortening
- 2 squares unsweetened chocolate
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup broken walnut meats
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Melt shortening and chocolate over boiling water. Add sugar gradually to eggs, beating thoroughly. Add chocolate mixture and blend. Add flour and mix well; then add nuts and vanilla. Bake in a greased 8x2-inch pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 35 minutes. Cut in squares. Remove from pan and cool on cake rack. Makes about two dozen brownies.

May Recipe

- 1 cup cooked Comet rice
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup milk
- 5 tablespoons melted shortening
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar

Beat well the rice, milk, beaten eggs, shortening. Sift flour, sugar, salt and baking powder into batter. Mix only enough to combine. Bake in greased muffin pans. Yield: 12 average size muffins. Temperature: 400 degrees F. Time: 25 minutes.

Choosing Perfume Is Important Task for Clever Young Bride

The smart bride is the girl who plans well in advance all the details of her wedding. She wants to be her radiant, happy best on this day of days, and her alter appearance is sure to reveal the strain of any last minute alterations and preparations.

During those exciting pre-marriage weeks, you may spend hours shopping for the clothes for your trousseau and just the right gloves, hats, shoes and jewelry. And it is important that you use equal care in selecting that most personal of all your accessories—your fragrance. Whether you wear a wedding gown in the traditional manner or are married in a street dress of blue or one of the heavenly new mauves, you will want the aura of fragrance surrounding you to be as unsophisticated and feminine as your costume.

No heavy perfume for the fresh, radiant bride! Rather, you'll want a light, subtle scent to match the clear brilliance of your eyes. Take time to select the fragrance which is exactly the one for you. The myriad of delicate floral bouquets or fresh, spicy scents offer a wide choice to the discerning bride-to-be. The perfume expert in your favorite store will be happy to guide you to the right perfume. So that you may be sure that your selection is the right one, here are a few simple rules to follow:

Try the perfume on your own skin. Scents change on each individual, because the chemistry of the skin affects the fragrance. Always let the liquid dry before smelling it.

Don't try more than three perfumes at any one time. If you don't find the one that you like, take a walk around the store and come back to try three more.

Once you have found your fragrance, use it adroitly. A dab behind each ear certainly is not enough to envelop you in fragrance. Put perfume on all the pulse spots—in front of the ears, along your throat, at the corners of your mouth, on wrists and inside the crook of your elbows. Saturate a small pellet of cotton and tuck it in your

Emphasis on Measurements Is Timely As Garden Vegetable Season Gets Under Way

Film Star Barbara Hale shows her daughter, Jody, one of the first lessons in being a model grownup daughter—putting away her clothes after each laundry day. An annual Daughter's Day observance has been launched for such special training for youngsters throughout the Nation. Experts say it makes better-trained adults, too.

Correct measurement is so easily done and so obviously necessary, it is just about taken for granted. Coming down to cases, did you ever try to measure a "heaping teaspoon?" For instance, you can heap on more baking powder, let us say, sometimes than at others. Careful homemakers avoid, as they would a plague, such indefinite measurements as "heaping" and "butter, size of an egg." All measurements, of course, should be level.

Erma Meeks of the Hawaiian Electric Company provides us with just the appropriate verse to complete this discussion. Clever, isn't it!

She guessed the pepper, the soup was too hot,

She guessed the water, it dried in the pot,

She guessed the salt and what do you think?

For the rest of the day, we did nothing but drink.

She guessed the sugar, the sauce was too sweet,

And by her guessing she spoiled the meat.

What of the moral? 'Tis easy to see;

A good cook measures most carefully.

A Warning to All Homemakers

Your family meals are more apt to be low in vitamin C now than at any other season of the year. Nutritionists tell us that studies of the blood plasma of school children have shown that there is a deficiency of ascorbic acid or vitamin C during late winter and early spring. Here is the explanation: Many of the vegetables and fruits used for meals have lost part of their nutrients in winter storage. What to do until spring gardens are in production? Some of us farm folk like to "take to the woods" in the spring for wild greens such as dandelion, poke, water cress, dock, etc. In North Georgia one spring day, I counted seven edible wild greens only a few feet apart. Dandelion, dock, mustard or sheep sorrel, and purslane (pussley) may be used raw in salad, as well as cooked. Caution: all greens should be well washed, but never soaked. Wash and keep cold, if necessary to hold them for a while.—Sallie Hill in the Progressive Farmer.

Short Stories Based On Facts And Figures

A little known secret of transporting minnows for long distances is to carry in airtight containers. A milk can with a tight cover is ideal for carrying large numbers. One or two gallon, wide-mouthed glass jars are ideal for carrying smaller amounts. Place fresh water in the container, put in minnows and screw lid on tightly. When jar is opened, change water and replace tight cover. Minnows may be carried safely and generally will remain lively for 24 hours.

Two backwoods fishermen spotted a game warden coming toward them. One had a fishing license, the other didn't.

The warden saw one of the men break and run. He gave chase. After a long, gruelling run he finally caught up with the man and asked to see his license. It was shown, and all was in good order. The officer left, muttering under his breath.

You guessed it: The man who didn't run also didn't have a license—but of course he'd vanished by the time the warden had caught his friend . . .

Here's a tip to housewives from the extension home management specialists of Texas A&M College on cleaning the grids in the waffle iron. They say that a paper napkin soaked with household ammonia and placed between the grids . . . and left over night will do the job. The ammonia loosens the brown cooked on accumulation of grease and it may then be wiped off or rubbed off with steel wool. (This cleaning method is often used also for cleaning the inside of ovens.)

Question: Some of my growing chicks have been losing their feathers. What is the cause of this?

Answer: There are several causes. First, all chicks molt during the growing period. Second, there is an inherited factor, which is often found in the general purpose or heavy breeds which causes a tendency to slow feathering. Third, overcrowding and other poor management factors cause a loss of feathers in growing stock.

How a bat flies in the dark and does not collide with walls has been the subject of investigation for decades. It was established by Drs. R.

Galambos and D. R. Griffin (Harvard) four years ago that a bat sends out a note of high pitch which is reflected by a wall and heard. Whereupon the bat knows what it has to do. We have, then, something like radar, with sound as the disturbance to be reflected instead of a radio wave.

Prof. T. Hartridge (St. Bartholomew's Hospital Medical College, of London) published in 1920 the theory "that bats during flight emit a short wave-length note and that this sound is reflected from objects in the vicinity." There is no doubt about this now. In fact, bats can steer clear even of carpet threads or thin wires in complete darkness. Injure the ear of a bat so that he cannot hear, and he plumps right into an object.

"Remember The Alamo" Recalls Great Courage

"Remember the Alamo!" That Texas cry of freedom was uttered so long ago that many Americans today have almost forgotten it — yet that appeal was one of the most famous war cries of the world, and once stirred America to its very heart.

It grew out of that epic struggle in 1836 which gave Texas its freedom from long-hated Mexican rule and tyranny.

What was the Alamo? Simply a Franciscan mission built in a grove of cottonwoods that gave it its name, where now stands the City of San Antonio.

When the merciless Mexican tyrant, Santa-Anna, marched into the region with 4,000 men to destroy the Texans who had dared to rebel against his authority, approximately 180 men assembled to oppose him.

Without even a ghost of a show in open battle, they marched into the ancient thick-walled mission and awaited the attack.

No Doubt About Outcome

There never was any doubt about the outcome. Death for the defenders was the only possible result. But those defenders were commanded by Col. W. B. Travis, and among them were Col. James Bowie, originator of the famous bowie knife, and Col. David Crockett. Here were three of the most intrepid frontiersmen that America has ever known.

From Feb. 23 to March 6, 1836, the determined Texans repulsed every assault.

Santa-Anna's cannon finally made a breach in the wall, but the Mexicans paid dearly to get through it.

The men in the Alamo had fought for one purpose—to gain time for

Gen. Sam Houston to assemble a Texas army.

The force he got together was pitifully small, but the Texans fought with dauntless fury. "Remember the Alamo!" was the savage shout that rose from their lips. Probably never in history have men fought more savagely, more fearlessly. Nothing could stop them.

The Mexicans gave way. Santa-Anna was captured. Mexican domination and Mexican tyranny were ended for all time. And Texas was free. A decade later she entered the Union, the United States of America, as the Lone Star State—proud of her citizens, typical of those who did so much to make America great.—Lewis E. Theiss in Grit.

Maybe a yawn is bad manners. But it is an honest opinion.

The RANGE RIDER—and The EDITORS

By WELDON OWENS

ROBERT H. BRIDGES in Bob and Jess column in The Bethany (Okla.) Tribune-Review: "Automobiles have improved considerably in the last 25 years, but Oklahoma drivers have failed to make a similar advance . . . One out of every three applicants for driver's license failed to pass the test last month. Almost 10,000 applicants passed, while 5800 failed."

Deplorable it is, Mr. Bridges, but they're still trying. Especially women. I heard a woman ask an officer the other day: "Tell me, Officer, which signal do I use when I start to turn a corner and suddenly decide not to," . . .

MRS. KATE COLLIER in The Oakdale (La.) Journal: "The president of a retail association whose membership includes stores in all parts of this country and Canada recently said that the three feet of space between the customer in front of the store counter and the retail clerk behind is the most important space in the country today. The maximum sale of consumers' goods, he added, is necessary to full employment."

WHAT MRS. COLLIER says is profoundly true. That space between the customer and the counter is precious. Just ask the man or woman who has begun to fill it up with waistline. And that stuff adds quietly. Somebody once said: "When old age comes, as it's bound to do; You'll hear it creeping up on you." Well, that space fills up without warning. But that's not the sad part of Mrs. Collier's warning. She adds that when retail sales fall to a seriously low point, we've got a depression on our hands. And at the same time, while the depression is on, there's less to eat, and the customer gets thinner, and the space between the customer and the counter gets bigger. That's where we came in.

CHAS. B. HALL in The McGregor Mirror: "This special edition of The McGregor Mirror greets arrival of Union Asbestos & Rubber Company to this section. There are only two other such plants in the United States."

THE MCGREGOR EDITOR'S 16-page edition was a whopper, and a credit to the entire staff. I worked on The Mirror back in the days when I had only one chin, and

A fellow on the jury asked the judge if he could be excused from serving.

"Well, why do you think you should be?" the judge asked.

"I owe a man $25 that I borrowed, and he's leaving town today and won't be back for about three years. I wanna catch him before he gets to the train, and pay him," the jurymen explained.

"Brother, you're excused," the judge said. "I don't want anybody on the jury who can lie like that."

strangely enough, Charlie Hall cares naught for extra revenue from a special edition. So it is true when he says the edition was published for the sole purpose of greeting the new industry. The McGregor editor is one tutor in the fourth estate who was content long before he made his first million. A bowl of vegetable soup traveling its third day and fresh white onions used to paint his personality with a picture of contentment. And since his talented son-in-law, Thomas Edward Mooney, has moved in with Wife Bonnie and a baby, Mr. Hall's cup runneth over. Well done, Mirror staff.

C. K. MICK in The Smithville (Tex.) Times: "In the very near future, Dr. R. J. Rodgers, state veterinarian, will be in Bastrop County making TB tests on cattle. For all who are interested please notify D. B. McCombs, county agent, by postcard, with the following information: Name and mailing address, location of farm and number of cattle in your herd."

EDITOR MICK is doing a good favor with such publicity. Because, next to human beings, the cow is the chief carrier of tuberculosis. However, we should not hold that against the lowing, cud-chewing dairy. She's a kind-hearted animal and one of man's best friends. Her cousin, the Brahman, wears a hump that breeders boast is an extra "seven-pound roast." It is well that science is working to freeze out the germs that invade Bossy's milk factory, and weekly newspapers are helping do the job through their columns. In the meantime, let not our judgment against the cows be too harsh. They're a patient lot to tolerate cold milking fingers on a wintry morn.

E. F. STAHL in The Melrose (New Mex.) News: "The government of this nation is dominated by the small towns and the rural areas—not by the great city populations. That striking fact is developed in an analysis of the United States Congress published in The American Press. The study shows further that 42 Senators and 132 Representatives have a weekly newspaper as their hometown paper."

THE PILLAR of democracy and Christianity still stand in the villages. There is no doubt. Where men and women sing from the waist up in church, and neighbors still borrow sugar and syrup, you'll find real living. Even if some of them bring back a borrowed quart of milk in a pint pitcher. The man who lives outside the metropolis should offer a regular prayer of thanks for not having to dodge traffic and feeling the freshness of pure air every day. I knew one fellow who was so happy after he moved to a little town that he would wake up during the night—laugh a while—then go back to sleep.

KONAWA (Okla.) LEADER: Mrs. Pearl LaMunyon recently sold her interest in the Konawa Peanut Company and is moving to Enid. She will be office manager and bookkeeper for the Enid Events.

SURELY Oklahoma editors will welcome Mrs. LaMunyon into the fourth estate—fresh out of the peanut business. Although Enid Events will gain, the peanut industry can ill afford to lose such talent as has Mrs. LaMunyon. The peanut was born in South America and has become a popular American family in recent years. Its hay, oil and butter are delicacies for man and beast. And 'tis said that no greater will power hath man than to eat only one salted peanut and quit.

THE OLD WEST TEXAN says nobody is entirely useless. Even the worst of us can serve as horrible examples.

It Happened

Snake Two-Day Battle

From West Virginia comes the story of a very unusual fight. While walking up Snyder Run, in Gilmer County, Simon Arnold heard a gurgling noise behind a big log. He was in a hurry and didn't stop to investigate. Next day, however, he heard a gasping noise behind the same log. He decided to check into the matter.

Behind the log Arnold saw a blacksnake, "big around as my arm," and a big chicken hawk locked in a death struggle. Although held in the snake's coils, the hawk was still biting and clawing. One claw was buried in the snake's side, and the bird had pecked a sizable hole in the reptile's body. The grass was worn and beaten down where the two had been fighting for two days.

Arnold killed the snake. When the hawk was free, it attacked its rescuer. The man had to kill it, also. Arnold said he believed the hawk would have killed the snake since the latter was practically exhausted when beaten loose from its prey.

Cicero's Trip to Leonard's Is Important Event

By JOHN WELDON

No wonder Cousin Cicero couldn't find his way home yesterday. He couldn't even find his way out of Leonard's. That is, until one of the courteous floorwalkers spotted him and helped him to the door facing his farm eight miles away from Fort Worth.

That Leonard's store is the biggest thing Cousin Cicero and I have ever seen since we helped Uncle Ide build a new silo before the war. They tell me the Leonard boys started out with a bank account that looked worse than an old pension check. Well, it's a lot different today.

Their food department alone a shopper's parades out over adize." 22,000 square feet, and 200 feet is nothing but expensive, cold refrigeration to keep fancy stuff or chitlin's fresh for thousands of shoppers and sightseers every day. The place where they sell cakes and cookies and stuff like that is 75 feet long, all glass and shining prettier than dishes Papa has dried.

No More Waiting

You can go upstairs without walking. They've got some things they call escalators. Uncle Ide sure would go for them, because he doesn't like

"And they started out in a little 25x60 foot spot." bought something big in the farm store, or their furniture department . . . or dry goods. You can't mention anything they don't sell. And while you're shopping, their loud speaker system always stays on the job finding "lost" children, or making emergency calls.

The building for the department store is a three-floor and basement layout, and the food building is a five-story and basement structure. And they're connected by a passageway.

We didn't get to meet the owners, but a clerk said their full names were Marvin Leonard, Obie Leonard, Bob Leonard and Paul Leonard. The last two are sons of "Every day it's like a Obie Leonard family reunion." ard, the clerk said.

In the farm store, a two-story building, we never saw such a bunch of merchandise. All shining and new, and everything old-time advertised brands.

Growth Is Fast

I don't see how anybody can grow so fast in business but the Leonard's have shown merchants in the South how to do it. Why, they say they will do nearly fifty million dollars worth of business this year. And if you'll try to move around real fast on some Saturday afternoon in some department, you'll agree they'll do it. More than 100 key supervisors are in charge of hundreds of clerks and other personnel.

The store is 32 years old, but that's all that's old. Buildings, ideas, merchandise are brand new. They just spent two million dollars in an expansion program.

One of the men told me that their combined selling space for the store is nearly a fourth of a million square feet. I don't see how anybody but a bacteriologist can talk in the same figures as they do business in. They say it helps them save customers money doing business on such a big scale.

Anyway, it's a long way from the 25x60-foot space at N. Houston, where they started in December, 1918. And it's a long way from the old-fashioned way of doing business out of a cracker barrel.

I'm going back again when Aunt Sarah from Chicago comes. I want them to see how we do things in the South. And she won't worry about getting lost in Leonard Bros.' store. She wrote she's bringing a Boy Scout and a compass.

Pipes Good for Other Things, Too

GARY, Ind., (NPC).—Claud W. Gray of El Paso, Texas, is a steam-fitter with ideas. He has pipe dreams that are practical. He believes pipes can be used otherwise than as mere conveyors of water, steam and gas. This he has demonstrated with an invention that his friends confidently believe will net him a fortune.

Recently Gray applied for patents on a system of pipes that parallel the sides of windows and doors. The system includes wiring to operate, by electric current, solenoids that snaplock bars in and out of openings. The pipes contain glycerin. Sash cords are attached to vacuum cups in the pipes. Windows slide up and down by vacuum and gravity.

Banks and businesses like Brink's Express Company in Boston could greatly benefit by the installation of his system, Gray maintains. When the robber puts in an appearance, someone kicks a button that slams and locks all windows and doors simultaneously. Another button touches off the regular burglar alarms. Mr. Robber runs for exit. He is trapped. The police come and take him away in the "paddy wagon."

FROM CHINA TO NEW YORK'S PELL STREET—Mayor of New York's Chinatown, Shavey Lee (left) points out a landmark on Pell Street to Li Tsung-Jen, who was acting president of China until he was ousted from office early in March by Chiang Kai-Shek's announcement that he was "resuming the presidency." Mrs. Li (right) looks too. Friends gave the Lis a birthday party. Former President Li has been in this country for medical treatment.

Our Farm Expert Writes--

Business men and farmers of Arkansas are singing the praises of George Trollope, the man who is responsible for making that state a leader in the turkey-growing industry.

Just five years ago, Trollope "sold" Arkansas on the idea of raising poultry in general, and turkeys in particular, in order to obtain a balanced economy.

Today, farms from Little Rock to Conway, on to Ozark and up through the mountains to Missouri, are dotted with flocks of broad-breasted bronze turkeys that equal or excel any grown in this country.

Although the turkey business was new to Arkansas farmers, Trollope was an old hand in the game. He had initiated wide-scale turkey programs in Texas and Colorado and saw each one make money for the communities producing them.

Trollope didn't confine his Arkansas efforts to talking, either. He worked personally with every farmer who wanted to go in the business; usually was on hand when the first poult arrived.

Now the turkey growers of Arkansas know how much Trollope was doing for them in the early stages of the program—for the birds with the big drumsticks really are paying off.

Homeless Girls Get Home During Big Celebration

WHITEFACE, Texas.—Thousands of West Texans looked over Girls Town, U. S. A., recently, and were "mighty proud."

"We're mighty proud to be part of it," said booted, suntanned V. T. Brady, riding around on his Palomino horse as a member of the sheriff's posse of Lubbock.

The posse estimated it served "the biggest, best barbecued beef in the world" to 5,000 persons. Some of them came 400 miles just to look over this low rambling ranch house, stretched out over the plains of West Texas.

It's the first permanent residence of Girls Town, U. S. A., a home for homeless girls.

It will be the home of 12 girls living in the ranch headquarters of Girls Town now. And it will be the home of more girls who need a home until 64 fill up the 32 bedrooms.

"I want you to envision seven residences like this," Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of Girls Town, told the crowd standing outside the residence. "A home for 500 girls. That is our plan for Girls Town within the next 10 years."

People came from all over West Texas—from Amarillo, Abilene, Littlefield, Odessa, Midland, Lubbock, Big Spring, Levelland, Sweetwater and Snyder. Six members of the sheriff's posse at El Paso—400 miles away—came to see.

About 60 members of the sheriff's posse from Lubbock, 52 miles away, were there with their best horses, fanciest saddles and Sunday boots. They're the ones who started at 5 p. m. on a recent Saturday barbecuing seven cows to serve the following day.

Cal Farley, who founded Boys Ranch at Old Tascosa, near Amarillo, Texas, 11 years ago, was there. The ranch is the home for 126 boys now.

"There's seldom a case, when we take a boy, that a sister isn't involved," Farley said. "She needs help, too. And you've got to take these boys and girls away from that environment that made them need help. There isn't any question but what a place like this is needed."

It's Still Just Common Cold, Whatever The Neighbors Say

Suzanne Thomas, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thomas, 1828 S. Henderson, Fort Worth, wrote the following lamentation for The Daily Lass'O, Texas State College for Women, Denton, newspaper. The common cold definitely got a unique treatment here, and various editors are relaying it to their readers.

By Suzanne Thomas

Early in the afternoon it was an allergy. As the hours passed it became hay fever. By nightfall I was diagnosed by the many unlicensed physicians in the dorm as a "common cold case."

Some pessimist mentioned pneumonia. I happened to remember reading that 20,047 new influenza cases were reported in the United States last week. Frantically I rushed to my neighbors, seeking advice on how to cure a cold.

One friend recommended the old saying, "Feed a cold; starve a fever." This was no help because I was the victim of both cold and fever.

At the next door I was told that if I choked to hold my hands high above my head. By then my head felt so big I didn't think I could reach around it.

The next adviser suggested some old remedies her great-grandmother practiced. "Try bear grease on your chest," she said. "If that doesn't help put blocks of paregoric around your neck to keep more cold germs from entering."

A set of roommates advised me to go to bed in a flannel jacket. That was a good idea, but the temperature was 80 degrees.

As I finished my 900th kleenex, I met a fellow sneezer. With tears in her bloodshot eyes she moaned that some just have to suffer.

Mustard plasters, honey, sulphur and molasses, heating pads and hot water bottles, rest, fruit juices and all sorts of drugs were some of the other "cures" I was advised to try. Oh yes, someone else mentioned the hot toddie, but I was afraid to run the risk.

When I finally returned to my own room I took a box of aspirin, blistered myself in a hot bath, drank a hot lemonade, went to bed and died.

P.S.: Don't take my advice. Go to Hygeia and get the proper treatment for the common cold.

Miss Thomas is a sophomore journalism student at TSCW and will be sports editor of the excellent school publication next year.

Colleges Spend Money To Bring Rodeo Fans Fun

Famous educators of yesterday little dreamt that some day thousands of dollars would be spent for rodeo arenas at leading colleges.

Among improvements being made at Texas A&I College in Kingsville, Texas, is a $10,000 rodeo arena, built on the college campus. Rodeo stars of this South Texas institution have become the college heroes, and the A&I Rodeo Club completed construction of pens and other arena necessities in preparation for the Intercollegiate Rodeo held in conjunction with the recent South Texas Fair and Exposition.

On the more serious side, residents and business men of Kingsville have reported raising more than $40,000 of the $50,000 they had pledged toward construction of the A&I Student Union Building.

The Kingsville Chamber of Commerce recently gave a check for $40,000 to Pres. Ernest H. Poteet of A&I. Another $4,000 has since been raised. President Poteet, accepting the check on behalf of the college board of directors, said: "We are deeply grateful to the people of Kingsville for their interest and financial support."

Meantime, the rodeo improvements show a pronounced tendency of husky South Texas college boys to bust brones and bulldog steers. A year ago the rodeo club was not even recognized by the college. Today it is called the "darling of A&I." The rodeo arena was built by college boys who volunteered to work on it—and even obtained much of the lumber free of charge from Kingsville firms. Even the girls have worked on the arena. It's the college cowboy who is the "big man" on the campus now.

Grim Warnings On Insect Wave Given Farmers

A grim warning that vast hordes of crop-destroying insects may swarm over the South Plains of Texas and much of the Southwest this year was given to farmers by state, area and county agricultural experts.

Favored by a mild winter, an extra-large supply of insects and eggs are present in the area, waiting only for favorable climatic conditions to develop in field-scouring armies.

"Indications point toward a heavy infestation of insects in 1950, due largely to a mild winter and a large number of over-wintering eggs and adult insects," read a report submitted to D. W. Sherrill, county agent, Lubbock County, Texas, by Guy E. Carpenter, entomologist stationed at Lubbock on the district agent's staff.

"Whether this infestation materializes depends to a great extent on weather conditions, especially moisture," Carpenter pointed out.

Carpenter and Sherrill said the announcement was not intended to alarm farmers but to alert them so that if insects do appear in heavy numbers, proper control methods may be applied before too much damage is done.

Grasshoppers apparently pose the most serious threat of coming forth in great numbers, Carpenter indicated, but the wheat aphid or greenbug already is making a strong bid for unpopularity.

The northern counties of the South Plains, where wheat is a major crop, already have greenbugs developing in damaging numbers.

News and Comment About Farm and Ranch

Dust and Drouth Lashing the Life From Sooner Soil

ANADARKO, Okla.—An elderly farmer squinted grimly into a biting, blinding sandstorm which pushed dunes of dirty-pink top soil across his once-fertile farm.

"I'm not giving up," said J. A. Lane. "Dust and drouth came before and we licked it. We can lick it again."

Lane's 160-acre farm lies in the middle of a "potential dust bowl," which government agencies say extends over 150,000 acres of southwestern Oklahoma. The area hasn't had a soaking rain in six months. An unceasing wind gnaws at Lane's farm, spreading a cancerous growth of dunes and kicking up dirt clouds that swirl far across country.

Seen as Act of God

Lane views the desolation of his farm as an act of God. He prays for relief—for rain.

About 350 farmers within a 10-mile radius of Lane's place share his longing for rain, but many of them are better off than he.

Only a few hundred yards from Lane's devastated farm are growing crops, lush and green in amazing contrast.

That land has been handled by modern soil conservation methods different from practices of the 82-year-old Lane, who has worked the same land since 1907.

Was Just Unlucky

Lane knows that dry weather isn't the basic cause of his trouble.

"I was just unlucky," he told me. "We didn't get anything planted as a cover crop before the last good rain. My land is naked. It doesn't have any protection from the wind."

Local dust storms rise over a 60,000-square mile area in Caddo County, Okla., every day or so. The gritty clouds have spread across the entire Southwest and Middle West a few times but they form more frequently here.

The dunes of drifting top soil encroach on Lane's farm yard, piling around his outbuildings like snow banks. In some places the dunes are drifting from eroded land onto the growing crops of adjoining farms. — Carter Bradley, United Press Writer.

YOU NEED IODINE

Small but steady quantities of iodine are needed by the body for normal growth and development, healthy skin and hair, mental alertness, physical vigor as well as a preventative for goiter. The best source for this needed supply is "iodized" salt.

By choosing a floor carefully, small rooms can be made to appear larger; large rooms can be brought down to size. Warm colors make a cold room inviting cool colors "cool off" a warm room. Light-colored furniture can be brought into focus against a dark floor; dark, bulky furniture can be lightened up with a light-colored floor.

Paradox: It is easier to tell identical twins apart when they are together than when they are apart.

Added protection for the poultry flock now may be obtained through the use of improved building materials. The walls of this laying house, for example, have been lined with asbestos-cement flat sheets. These easily-applied sheets keep out rats and other rodents. They're peck-proof and fire-resistant as well. Ease of cleaning helps promote sanitation and ward off poultry diseases.

Triplets Back At Home On Native River Front

JONESVILLE, La.—The 2-week-old Hardie triplets are at home—but they aren't expecting many visitors.

Even the doctor who spent three days bringing them into the world isn't planning to go see the thriving babies.

"It would take me too far away from the clinic," said Dr. N. G. Nasif.

Home Is Houseboat

Home for the babies is a four-room houseboat, anchored two miles up the flood-swollen Ouchita River. They share it with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hardie, and seven other children.

Dr. Nasif said the three children, Jodie and his sisters Julia and Judy, have ceased to be a local attraction.

And even if people wanted to see them, they'd have to go to a lot of trouble, the doctor said.

"People would have to get a boat to get to the Hardie home."

Each Gains Pound

Dr. Nasif said each of the babies has gained a pound. Jodie, born March 7, weighs 6 pounds. Julia, born the next day, weighs 7, and Judy, born March 9, is the heaviest at 8 pounds.

Papa Hardie's luck seems to have changed for the better since his three blue-eyed, brown-haired babies arrived.

Hardie, a commercial fisherman, suffers with chronic bronchitis and neuritis caused by years of living on the damp river, Dr. Nasif said.

Waits for Ebb

But the two-week rest while his babies were in the clinic seems to have helped him some, the doctor added.

The triplets are getting little special care, the doctor said. They share the same bed and are on the usual diet.

Dr. Nasif said they received donations — canned milk and baby food, about $400 in cash, clothing, bedding and money for a washing machine.

Prevention Only Means to Control Bang's Disease

Brucellosis or contagious abortion is a widespread infectious disease, caused by the organism Brucella abortus, that affects all classes of dairy and beef cattle. All animals are susceptible, but brucellosis is most prevalent in pregnant cows and heifers, where the disease germs localize in the reproductive organs and udder. Undulant fever in man is caused by the same organism, and may be contracted by drinking raw milk from infected cows or by handling infected animals. Healthy herds generally become infected by the addition of diseased cows or heifers.

The only noticeable symptom may be the premature birth of a dead calf, which, if it occurs, usually takes place between the fifth and eighth months of pregnancy. Retained afterbirth, vaginal discharge, sterility, and decreased milk production are among the chain of events that often follow infectious abortion. An infected animal rarely aborts more than once or twice in succession, although it usually continues to react positively to the blood test and should be regarded as a dangerous spread of disease to non-infected animals in the same herd. The rapid agglutination test, properly conducted and interpreted, is a dependable means of diagnosis.

Prevention is the only means of control. The following management control practices are worthy of consideration: (1) Do a blood test; segregate or dispose of infected animals. (2) Practice rigid sanitation. (3) If possible, raise your own herd replacements. (4) Avoid outside breeding. (5) Provide clean maternity pens for calving. (6) Purchase only blood-tested negative animals from negative herds. (7) Isolate all herd replacements for a 60-day re-test period.

This First-Grader Can Fly, She's 11 Years Old But Hasn't Learned to Add The Simplest Numbers in School Yet

Not many first graders can fly, but the Akron, Ohio, public school system has one who can.

With her scholastic background, this one should be the brightest pupil in school. But she's 11 now and still can't add two plus two.

Poor Peggy! Other pupils have written many stories about her. The stories all have been filed away carefully by Miss Alice Blair, first grade teacher at Leggett School.

Born in School

A few choice titles are "Peggy Flies to School," "Peggy Likes Good Boys and Girls" and simply "Peggy Is a Dove."

Daughter of two ring-tail doves brought to school by a teacher, Peggy was born in a nearby room and adopted by Miss Blair and her pupils.

The teacher soon became expert at repairing broken wings and curing other bird ailments. Peggy's influence started outpourings of sympathy for whatever sick animals Miss Blair's pupils could find. And they found plenty of them.

Just Won't Leave

Peggy spends each day in school, but at night she is bundled and Miss Blair takes her home—along with other feathered creatures that might be on hand at the time.

When the birds recover from BB wounds, narrow escapes from cats or near starvation, Miss Blair releases them from her back yard.

But not Peggy. She's been given lots of chances, Miss Blair says, but she won't leave. She's devoting her life to the first grade.

Hey, Kids! Here's Good Memory Game

Take 15 to 20 familiar objects—a toothpick, a thimble, a cup, a salt shaker, a button—and place them haphazardly on a table.

Have each of your party guests come into the room and look at the objects for one minute. Give each a sheet of paper and a pencil as he leaves the room.

The object of the game is to see who remembers and is able to write the names of the most objects on the table.

A variation of the game is to divide the guests into two sides and give one point for each item each person remembers. The side with the most points after the papers are checked wins.

Cane With Half-Dimes Given Mrs. Washington

Among exhibits of the Federal Hall Memorial Museum in New York City is a walking stick ornamented with a silver half-dime, said to be the first U. S. silver coin ever struck. The story is it was minted in the presence of George and Martha Washington and presented to Mrs. Washington. The half-dime piece was discontinued in 1873.

U. S. mints also have turned out 3-cent and 2-cent coins. One 3-cent piece, of silver, introduced in 1851, saw wide use until it was discontinued in 1873, after almost 43,000,000 had been minted. Another 3-cent coin, of nickel, was issued from 1865 to 1889.

The bronze 2-cent piece was authorized during the Civil War. Withdrawn in 1873, it was the first coin to carry the motto, "In God We Trust."

Did You Know?—

Beavers sometimes attain a weight of 60 pounds.

In winter the lynx grows on its feet tufts of hair that serve as snowshoes and enable it to travel over soft snow.

In summer the weasel is yellowish brown. In winter its fur is white and known as ermine.

The spotted skunk is often called the hydrophobia skunk, but it has not proved more susceptible to hydrophobia than any other animal.

Unlike the whitetail, a mule deer when flushed will run a short distance, then look around, thus giving the hunter a standing shot.

Children of the World Lost a Great Benefactor When Famed Dentist Died

Children lost a great friend a few days ago. Death claimed him.

Most of them had never met him, because he worked in his laboratory out at Baylor University, Dallas, Texas, from early in the morning until late in the afternoon. Lots ing until late in the afternoon. Lots wasn't feeling very well. He always explained that he had to finish something before he went away so the "little folks won't hurt so much."

This friend—Bernhard Gottlieb—was a very famous man in the grown-up world. He was a dentist, a doctor of medicine, a teacher and a scientist.

But most important to kids and their friends all over the world—he found out why their teeth decay and hurt. Better still, he taught dentists a simple and inexpensive treatment to materially reduce decay.

Because of him, more children can eat candy without the pain of a "sweet tooth." Kids who are just getting their permanent teeth some day may never have a cavity if they see their dentist at least twice a year, getting this treatment. It makes the teeth stronger, whiter and decay resistant. Some tests during the last eight years have proved it will also help their moms and dads.

The "treatment" is a simple matter. The dentist saturates the teeth with three liquids. Dr. Gottlieb called them zinc chloride, potassium ferro cyanide and silver nitrate.

The first two produce a hard, white metallic salts which is water resistant, while the silver nitrate gives extra protection for the back teeth. The salts penetrate thousands of tiny canals which run from the outside of teeth into the softer dentin. In pictures of teeth Dr. Gottlieb took for many years, he saw that bacteria, always present in the mouth, traveled down these canals through the hard enamel to the inside to start their destructive work.

Blocking of these canals was the reason he believed that fluoride applied to the teeth had been partially successful (20 to 40 per cent) in reducing decay. Fluoride chemically attracts calcium, which blocks some of these canals, but does not block them as thoroughly as the three other liquids, he said.

Veterans of World War II, already busy spending nearly $3 billion in dividends on their national service life insurance, have been promised another dividend in 1951. It will not be nearly as large as the payment now being distributed, but it will total many millions.

There was too much wind and too much dirt in it—so rattlesnake hunting wasn't up to par in Okeene, Okla., and the deadly diamondbacks got a break.

But some 2,000 persons ignored the swirling dust storm and attacked the nearby gypsum hills to capture almost 350 rattlers.

The weather — with 50-mile-an-hour wind—chopped this year's take almost in half from previous years. The rattlers, which hibernate in canyons during the winter, just don't like this dirt.

So the snakes stayed at home and weren't receiving the hunters.

About 3,000 other persons from 19 states walked around this small North Central Oklahoma town and looked at the snakes the hunters carted back.

JIM MITCHELL and Bill Kawalski, a couple of hunters from Enid, Okla., hit the towering hills. They were quilled with dirt when they returned here—but they had four rattlers jailed in small sacks.

They were proud—as all hunters are—of their catch. They especially talked about a captured four-footer.

"He's a good one, this one," said Kawalski, a first-year man in rattler rustling.

And Mitchell added:

"I had to get down on my hands and knees and crawl in under a cliff for that baby. He struck at me once and I got out of there fast. I went back after him and he was ready to strike again when I slipped my snake stick noose around his head."

IT'S AN ANNUAL get-together, this hunt conducted by the International Association of Rattle Snake Hunters. And the folks of Okeene—called "Rattle Snake Gulch" during the two-day hunt—go all out to entertain their visitors.

The out-of-towners can take in a couple of sideshows—featuring snakes, of course.

Like the one named "Fearless Fosdick."

Arthur Jones of Carlsbad, N. M., removes his shoes and socks. Then, barefooted, he enters a pit packed with scores of rattlers.

One of them bit him a couple of years ago, but this year he finished his day-long show without a mark.

JONES ALSO challenged all-comers to a rattler milking contest. Five persons—four men and one woman—accepted. But Jones, the professional, ended the victor. He milked three snakes in 30 seconds and got four CC's of the deadly venom.

Two trophies were awarded. L. L. Shipman and H. H. Tomlinson, farmers from Watonga, Okla., captured the longest snake — 63½ inches.

John G. Burke of Middlebury, Vt., took the trophy for coming the farthest distance to the hunt.

The Oklahoma Flying Farmers also got into the act when their entry—Sue Johnson, 17, of Thomas, Okla.—was crowned the association's "snake charmer."

good idea to try out the fishing within 10 to 12 months after the pond is stocked. If the fish are keepers, fish the pond as much as possible.

How to tell how the fish are getting along.—If fishing gets poor and stays poor for a season, the chances are the pond is overstocked. This can be checked with a minnow seine between July and October. Make several hauls along the shore. If you catch many tiny bream and a few fingerling bass, fish are in balance.

Joe Louis Will Make Exhibit Circus Tours

Joe Louis, for 11 years the awesome Bronx bomber of boxing, says he will not return to the ring.

Instead he will start an exhibition tour of South America early next month and then make a $1,000-a-day swing through Canada with Dailey Brothers Circus. Six days weekly he will exhibit training techniques with the circus.

Louis, who rode a pair of explosive fists from an Alabama cotton patch to an honored niche in ring history, has been showing definite signs of a comeback for weeks on his current southern tour.

He went so far as to say it would be nice to be the first retired undefeated heavyweight champion to return to the ring and recapture the world crown a second time.

Last month, though, he went into a long huddle with the owners of the circus and the new development was confirmed in Waco, Texas.

Louis, nearing 36, arrived in Waco from Austin, Texas, by car. Attired in blue slacks and a sport shirt, he talked briefly with reporters in the office of the College View Inn, a hotel for Negroes overlooking Waco.

Paul Quinn College. His Waco exhibition opponent was Corp. J. H. Homer, Camp Hood, Killeen, Texas.

Louis took in a double-feature movie before the fight for relaxation. Louis is an avid western movie fan, his manager, Marshall Miles, said.

In a formal statement drawn up with Miles' aid, Louis said:

"After due consideration by Marshall Miles and Manny Seamon, my trainer, I will not return to the ring to try to regain the heavyweight championship. Instead, I will make an exhibition tour through South America and on my return will join Dailey Brothers Circus on May 24 for a tour of Canada."

He thanked the public, press and radio for "being so kind to me throughout my career." Louis retired March 1, 1949.

Hauser Hits Most Homers

Strange as it seems, Babe Ruth, conceded the mightiest slugger in baseball annals, doesn't hold the record for the most homeruns in a single season. The Bambino's mark of 60 for the 1927 season still stands as the top all-time performance in the big leagues, but a fellow named Joe Hauser lashed out 69 in 1933 while playing for Minneapolis in the American Association. Incidentally, Tony Lazzeri, later a star with the New York Yankees himself, equaled Ruth's total when he smacked 60 roundtrippers in the Pacific Coast League in 1925. Clarence Kraft's 55 for the Fort Worth Cats in 1924 is still the Texas League record.

Leon Hart, Notre Dame's all-American end, is the first football player since Johnny Mack Brown seriously considered to have a real chance for film fame.

Wrestles Bear

ASBURY PARK, N. J. — Two-ton Tony Galento, once a heavyweight boxing contender, returned to the ring in what was a bear of a match.

Tony boxed a three-round exhibition with a 500-pound bear at Asbury Park's arena.

Promoter Roland J. Hines said the New Jersey boxing commissioner, Abe J. Greene, okayed the match.

Farm Ponds Supply Fish

Visions of lazy summer afternoons under a shade tree will lure many southern farmers and ranchers to stock their ponds and lakes with fish this spring. But there are lots of questions which must be answered satisfactorily before such dreams become reality.

There are questions about stocking rates, fertilizing, control of undesirable fish and best kind of fish to stock.

These questions can be answered by information recently released by the Soil Conservation Service.

What is the best pond?—A pond of not more than one acre can provide all the fish the average family can use. New ponds are better than old—you can start them right. The watershed should be protected from erosion. It is best to have a drain pipe to permit draining all the water. Edges should be two to three feet deep, and the pond should be fenced.

Which are the best kinds of fish?—Experience has shown that bass and bluegill bream can be managed most effectively in farm or ranch ponds.

What production can be expected?—Unfertilized ponds support 25 to 200 pounds of fish per surface acre of water. Fertilized ponds support 200 to 600 pounds.

How to increase production?—Commercial fertilizer (6-8-4 or 8-8-4 is best) added to the water at the rate of about 100 pounds to the surface acre per month from April to November usually increases production tremendously.

When to start fishing?—It is a
